INTERPRETATION

Post-abandonment household rubble (due to: very frequent painted plaster + variety of special finds).
 Painted Plaster in particular was very frequent + often in large pieces, so probably did not travel very far + may relate to the destruction/robbing of the adjacent house to the west. Alternatively, a structure may yet be found underneath this layer, OR → if some of the rubble was pushed outward... this is only the ground where they found it.
 → collapsed, possibly a structure was built on a later layer of rubble at
 → due to proximity of the road, rubble could be from other houses in the area.
