INTERPRETATION

See 350 is the cut for an inhumation grave of a child (skeleton SU 348), which also contained numerous intact ceramic vessels & brown objects. The cut is oriented north-south, and its east & west sides are stepped, as if they once supported some sort of covering over the body.

A few large stones were found in the fill SU 333 along the edges of the cut but not enough fully cover the body. ^{on all} likelihood this cut was widened with cut SU 128 during the quarry's activity because the first fill SU 126 was composed by a lot of quarried debris and because there is a step on top edge and the cut over SU 128 is more large.
